The Only Recognized Likeness of the Great English Commoner.

HIGHLY PRIZED BY CHIEF BIGELOW

The long discussion which took place in the joint session of Councils on Friday, oceasioned by the free bridge subject having been unexpectedly introduced, deprived the city of a valuable gift, and the Councilmen of some valuable oratory relating to the times of long ago, Councilman Carnahan has received from W. G. Johnston a print of the old type, executed in London in A. D. 1760, of the great commoner, William Pitt, from whom the old fort was named. This was to have been presented, handsome ly framed, to Councils as a relic and a memento of the year in which the French were compelled to withdraw their forces from American soil, by the loss of the Canadian empire on the fields of Abraham, where two of the youngest generals the world has ever seen, except perhaps General Custer, were killed in a hand-to-hand fight of both their

THEY TALK TOO LONG.

Mr. Carnahan said yesterday on the subject: "You see the discussion lasted so need-lessly long on Friday that Mr. Bigelow, whom I wanted to make the presentation they had lithographs in these days, but I have credible information that it is the only authoritative likeness of William Pitt in existence. He was the statesman of his day, and by reading history you will see he was called to the position of Premier by the wish of the people, although compelled to associate with people, not alone distasteful and opposed, but inimical to him. He took office with the distinct understanding that he would attend to the affairs of State, and would have nothing to do with the financial policy of the kingdom. Under these conditions he took the place, and turning his mind upon this continent, which as history proved, was destined to dim the glare of the British sunsets, which are said never to occur, in the West he picked his man.

WOLFE DIED GAME. "As is usual in such cases the man was sacrificed to the cause, and the son of the people, Colonel Wolfe, whose romantic history you can read in Thackeray's "Virginius," died in a blaze of glory, more satisfactory to his memory than to his descend-ants, unless their love of game excels that of the grosser recognitions of worth in this

"With all these memories clustering around the picture of the man who made Wolfe and by shattering French Domion-ion in Canada, called off the French forces from this locality, and changing the history of the country it will no doubt be regarded as a very appropriate and valuable present, and will be placed among the valuable records of councils, as much on account of the early identity of the original history with the country as of gratitude to the

But Operators Will Continue Navigation Until They Lose Money.

Coal operators shipping to the lakes yesterday received notification that no more of its own weight, coal would be received. Navigation closed on last Wednesday, but further shipments will be made at a higher insurance, if in-surance be effected at all. Operators are prepared to take big risks in the prosecution of their trades, and generally continue to send coal to the lake ports until they lose a boat or two. Owing to railroad blocks shipments this year have not been as many

RIVERMEN IN HOT WATER.

The Plans of the Big Sandy Bridge Have Not Been Submitted to Them-Captain Moren Defends Himself.

The river operators are again stirred up on the bridge question. A notice was published in the Piltsburg papers yesterday morning that the West Virginia and Ironon Railroad Company would, on Tuesday next, November 19, apply to Secretary Procor, of the War Department, for permission to build a bridge across the Ohio river one mile and a half above the mouth of the Big Sandy. The owners of steamboats and coul lines say that the plans for this proposed bridge have not been submitted to the river operators, as has been the custom in the past. The time remaining before submission to Secretary Proctor is now so short that it is not expected that the plans will be submitted to the operators before presenta-tion to the War Department. The result will be that a number of members of the Legislative Committee of the National Board, of Steam Navigation will be com-pelled to go to Washington next week, and visit the War Secretary in company with the attorneys for the railroad company. Captain Addison Lysle is a member of the committee for this city, but at present he is in Cincinnati. It is probable that he will go to Washington in the interest of the Ohio River operators. Another matter which has stirred up the big operators in this city is an attack made editorially in the Ohio Valley Manufacturer of the past week, on Captain John Moren, the coal operator, for his breaking of the false work of the Wheeling bridge about ten days ago. It is charged that the Moren boat, with its heavy tow of coal barges, was purposely run against the piles at the bridge. It is further said that the river operators have shown general contempt for the rights of more important transportation interests, be time enough at the next meeting. I don't know whether this picture is a print or an engraving, or a—weil, don't know whether this picture is a print or an engraving, or a—weil, don't know whether this picture is a print or an engraving, or a—weil, don't know whether this picture is a print or an engraving. company, is advised to close the eastern span, which is the channel span, entirely.

Captain James Moren emphatically de nies that he intentionally ran into the arti ficial work. While the open channel there is much larger than the width of the tow, there is a strong cross-current at that place and just below the bridge an island, which it is necessary to avoid. The point is a difficult one for navigators. Captain Moren says he was on his tow at the time the strike was made, and was on one of the front boats. Had he intended to strike the piles he would not have been on one of the barges. Moreover, a number of his men were on the barges. When the work was struck the timbers fell all around the men, and it was with difficulty that they escaped. River men say generally that the tow was in great danger of being wrecked and that no experenced pilot would have run against the piles purposely. On the general subject of river obstrucion, Captain George Lysle said yesterday: Bridges across the Ohio must be built, but they can be built without placing obstruchere are short in comparison with those con-structed elsewhere, and the work can be done without the erection of false structures. It is so done elsewhere, and the bridgebuilders ought to be compelled to do so here. The river interests are very heavy and furnish the only guarantee to the people of reasonable freight rates."

AFRAID OF HER NEPHEWS.

Mrs. Michaik Makes an Information Against Them-The Right to Some Property Involved. An interesting suit was entered vesterday before Alderman Porter. Herman Michalk made an information against Austin Mitchabar and August Mitchabar for felonious assault and battery. Mrs. Michalk also the above-named defendants threatened to take her life. All the parties connected with the case live at West Bellionte, Kilbuck township,

Some months ago Mrs. Michalk sued for a divorce from her husband. It was granted, and the couple have been living alone ever since, though they are residing in the same neighborhood. The old man lives with the Mitchabar boys, who are his nephews, and young Michalk lives with his aunt at the old homestead. At the time the divorce was granted Mrs. Michalk came into posor ventilation, that is more of a box than a room for human habitation. A short time ago the woman's husband was sent to the workhouse for two years for felonious assault. Soon after she fell sick, and has suffered from want of food and attendance. Superintendent Dean took no setion when he learned that she was prepared to leave the n of a small farm out in that country. perintendent Dean took no action when he learned that she was prepared to leave the place she is now living in.

aunt, according to the information, and raised Cain, upsetting things generally and demanding that the lady should give up the property. Herman Michalk interfered, protesting against the conduct of the other nephews. This stirred the ire of the Mitchabars, who set upon him, it is alleged, beating him severely. Not content, it is alleged forther that they shot at him three times, without inflicting any bodily injury. The men then left. They met the old lady next day, and recepened hostilities by abusing her, and swore they would kill her to obtain the property, so she states in the informa-tion. She is afraid of her life, because she comes to market every week along the country roads with her produce. Being frightened at the threats of the young men, she seeks the protection of the county against them.

The new storeroom will give additional accommodation for 40,000

Mr. Z. Wainwright stated yesterday that they are going to follow the example of Frauenheim & Vilsack, and change their firm into a corporation shortly. He said that his two sons manage the business at present, but they will be admitted as corporators. He said further that the pool scheme so much talked about would never be adopted in Pittsburg. The idea had been presented at the Brewers Association, but it had always been shelved, no firm being en-thusiastic in its support. He said the pool is something like the syndicate project. It consisted of air principally and would burst

Mr. Wainwright stated that the talk among beer clubs to build a brewery so that they could obtain beer at cost prices was absord. It had been tried before. The St. Julien brewery was started as an experi-ment but the scheme failed.

CHILLO GETS 12 YEARS TO RIVERSIDE

Upon the opening of Criminal Court yesterday the verdict of the jury in the case of Aldermen Doughty, Callen and Mancese, and Bauder, Dougherty and Mc-Call was presented. They found all the parties guilty, with the exception of "Reddy" McCall, who was acquitted. Aldermen Doughty and Maneese were rec-mmended to the mercy of the court. Not much surprise was manifested by the egal fraternity yesterday over the verdict. The drift of evidence had been so strongly against the accused Aldermen, and the nature of the evidence had been so fully spread against the accused Aldermen, and the nature of the eridence had been so fully spread before the public as the result of the preliminary hearings before Margistrate Hyndman, that the public would hardly have been satisfied with any other result.

The prosecutors, Inspector McAleese and Clarence Burleigh, Esq., are much praised for their conduct of the case. Counsel for the convicted men say they will ask for a new trial. They claim that the Court erred in refusing to quash the indictment against the Bauder gang, and made other errors as to the admission of evidence and charge to the jury, which will operate in the defendants favor in the event of the case going to the Supreme Court.

This finding creates a vacancy in three offices of Aldermen which will have to be filled shortly. They were all remanded for sentence. There is, however, little doubt that the case will be appealed, as all the defendants are reported to be well-to-do. In regard to the case of Alderman Callen, his counsel asked for a polling of the jury. "Guilty," came clear and prompt from each juror.

Sentence was deferred by Judge White. The able and severe charge of the latter created something of a sensation in Aldermanic circles.

A MARRIED WOMAN'S SUPPORT.

An Orphan's Court Ward Who Married and Wants Her Estate. An argument was heard in the Orphans' Court, yesterday, on the petition of Mrs. Bertie Holtsinger for an allowance for her support. Mrs. Holtsinger before her marriage was Miss Probst. She was the heiress of $5,000 left her by her grandfather, of which J. Charles Dicken was the testamentary trustee until she became of age, and some property left her by an aunt, of which the Fidelity Title and Trust an aunt, of which the Fidelity Title and Trust Company was appointed the guardian. While Miss Probst was attending boarding school, she met C. W. Holtsinger, of Coraopolis, The old story was told and Miss Probst became Mrs. Holtsinger a year ago, and went to live with her husband's family.

She is still under age and has not come into her property, and a few days ago filed a petition in the Orphans' Court, asking that the custodians of her property be ordered to pay her tion in the Orphans' Court, asking that the custodians of her property be ordered to pay her $500 for her support for the past year, and an allowance for her future support.

The costodians of her estate answered that her husband was capable of supporting her. She claims that her husband only makes $1.50 per day, and beside has been sick.

The case was argued yesterday, Arch H. Rowand appearing for Mrs. Hottsinger and Messrs. Dicken and Ewing for the defense,

Young Legal Lights Try a Man for Burning a Barn-The Arguments to be Made Next

In the Quarter Sessions Court No. 2 yesterday before Judge J. T. Buchanan, Charles barn of W. R. Edmundson, of Ohio township. The fire was first discovered by a young farmer, a neighbor of Edmundson, who had been keeping company on the night in question with Edmundson's hired girl. Counsel for the prosecution were John Dunn and Marshall Reno, Esqs., and the prisoner was represented by Messrs. Alex. Goss and W. W. McElhenny. The defense moved to quash the indictment on the ground that it was defective, fixing the comsion of the crime on the night of the 28th of August, while the testimony at the pre-liminary hearing went to show that it was on the night of the 15th, but the objection was overruled.

For the defense an attempt was made to show that the prosecution was a conspiracy between Edmundson and his two main witnesses, John Carney and Samuel Ewing, and offered testimony to show that on July 4 Edmundson, his wife and the defendant Schlegle had entered into an agreement whereby for a consideration Schlegle was to burn the barn in order to realize on an insurance policy written on it by the Georgia Insurance Company, of McKee's Rocks, but that subsequently Schlegle's conscience went back on his resolve, and that on the night the barn was burned Schlegle was driving home from Sewickley in company with Rev. Dr. McKirdy, and when just opposite the barn saw the flames break out. A man named Ashworth testified that he had gone out to tie his dog Jack, and saw the flames just as they burst out, and saw the prose-cutor, Edmundson, and his two witnesses, Carney and Ewing, come out of the barn door. He also saw them run out and accost Schlegle and charge him with setting fire to

The prosecutor denied that he had been insured in the company named, when the delense put in evidence a document certify-ing thereto, signed by the officers of the com-pany. This was objected to by the prosecu-tion on the ground that the officers could have and ought to have been produced in court to testify. To this the defense made answer by showing that on Friday night there had been a wreek on the Pittsburg, Fort Wayne and Chicago Railway, in which all the officers of the company had possible to bring either books or officers into

County Controller Speer Wants Them to Do a Full Day's Work.

MORGAN CHARGED WITH PERJURY.

It is Claimed He Turned in More Time Than He is Entitled to.

THE HEARING POSTPONED A FEW DAYS

Some people are beginning to think County Controller Speer old fashioned in his otions of meum et tuum. Some years ago he gave a county official much 'trouble regarding his administration of affairs. Lately he has been poking up election officers for spending, as alleged, too much time in counting ballots, and now he has whetted his knife to take some county assessors' scalps. The warfare on the latter began yesterday.

Before Alderman Gripp Mr. Speer charges W. L. Morgan, Register Assessor in the Twenty-ninth ward, with extortion and perjury in returning 24 days' work, eight or nine days more time than supposed to be necessary to do the work. Yes-Schlegle was put on trial on a charge of terday at 3 o'clock P. M. was set for arson, it being alleged that on the night of the hearing, but testimony taking was the 28th of August last he set fire to the barn of W. B. Edmundson, of Ohio town-that there doesn't appear to be much unusual in the case, and that Mr. Speer's object in entering the prosecution was mainly for the purpose of having the court define ssessors' duties. It seems that some assessors, like some jurymen, regard the position more in the light of a sinecure—a reward for political service—than one requiring the expenditure of much labor, and the result in either instance is destructive to public interest. In the present case it appears that the defend-ant worked in Jones & Laughlins' iron works during the day and spent his even-ings in the service of the county, and the Controller is inclined to regard such service as likely to be very imperfect. During the triennial year assessors must wear out shoe leather in making estimates of the value of property, but in the off years it is said some of them do a large amount of guessing, and it isn't a matter of conscience either, as many a man who wouldn't defraud his neighbor of a penny will salivate the body politic moderately without any computction through a semi-unconscious

And a jury of such men will submit to be bullied into acquiescence into finding an unjust verdict rather than miss their dinner, forgetting for the time being that they not only violated their oaths, but do injustice to a fellow mortal.

Property assessment values, could they be understood, would show a crazy-quilt ap-pearance that would astonish even veteran county officials whose duty it is to supervise the assessors' work, though it by no means follows that a majority of the assessors are under the name of family medicines that have very few of the requisites demanded for household use. In the emergencies that are likely to arise at any time in the family they are always found wanting. They may be good medicines in many respects, and yet when it comes to the peculiar qualities, the possession of which entitles a medicine to the name of family medicine, they are to the name of family medicine, they are utterly lacking.

In the first place, family medicines that are family medicines in fact as well as in name, must cover all the diseases that are likely to break out at any time in a family. It may be a simple cold, or it may be consumption; it may be the whooping cough, or it may be cholera morbus; but whatever it is light or savere comparatively.

is a question in which all parents are deeply interested. There are medicines that sail

What constitutes a family medicine? This ever it is, light or severe, comparatively harmless or extremely dangerous, a family medicine must be able to check and to cure it. Then it must act promptly and effectively. The disease may be as violent as it is sudden, and unless a medicine acts promptly in nine cases out of ten it is use less. In any event it cannot be relied upon, and a family medicine must, above all things, be reliable. Then it must be good as well as safe for old and young to take, and pleasant, also, for otherwise the children will not take it. The children, it must be entitled to the name. But a medicine that is high in price cannot be kept in the house by poor people. They cannot afford to buy it. Therefore the price must be adjusted to meet their financial circumstances. Again, a family medicine ought to be a preventive as well as a cure. Part of its usefulness should be to keep disease away. The more successfully it can do this the more useful it is. But, above all, it must be such that it can be made use of by the members of the family without calling in the aid of a physician. This is unquestionably one of the principal attributes of a true family medi-cine, for without the ability to cure themselves by means of it the name—Family Medicine—would practically be meaning-

Such are the qualities that constitute fam-

ly medicines that truly and justly deserve the name. In how many medicines will these qualities be found? In very few, in-deed; and first and foremost among these few, by the common consent of all who have given them a trial, are the three great family remedies—Pe-ru-na, Man-a-lin and Lacu-pi-a. Every essential quality and important characteristic given above is possessed by these remedies in a marked degree To begin with, they cover all the diseases likely to break out at any time in any family. If it is heart or stomach, or colic, or cholera mor-bus, or cholera infantum, or diarrhesa, or dysentery, or disease of the kidneys, or scarlet fever, or whooping cough, or diphtheria, or typhoid fever, or erysip-las, or yellow fever, or rheumatism, or female diseases, or acute diseases of the skin, Pe-ru-na will cure them all, and ourse them in a maryelously short time. If cure them in a marvelously short time. If it is constipation, or biliousness or piles, or any kind of trouble with the liver, Man-a-Preparations for the annual tea party and concert for the benefit of St. Paul's Orphan Asylum, to be given at Lafayette Hall, on Wood street, on next Wednesday evening, are well under way, and assure a very successful event, both from a social and demonstrate its newer in a most conclusive demonstrate its newer in a most conclusive. demonstrate its power in a most conclusive manner. In the sixth place, and lastly, and most important of all, they are not only medicines for family use, but are to be used by the members of the tamily in curing themselves, thus saving time, trouble and doctor's bills. By every attribute and mark, therefore, of mark, therefore, of a true family medicine, these three are such. As such they are in thousands of homes to-day, in every State of the Union, and as such thousands of families that have tried them and found them as advertised would not for a single day be without them. As such, finally, they are recommended for trial to those who have

FURNITURE,

If there's a house in this city keeping a larger, handsomer, finer and cheaper stock of Furniture than Keech's, we would like to hear of it. As a matter of fact, however, we have more goods to show on a single one of the several floors devoted by us to our Furniture trade than can be seen in the entire will not take it. The children, it must be borne in mind, are a very important part of the family, and their tastes as well as needs must be consulted. Then further, a family medicine must be reasonable in price. The rich are the few, the poor are the many. A family medicine that finds its way into rich families only is not truly antilled to the area. But a radialize that

Although the present is supposed to be a rather dull season in the Carpet line, our trade continues with unabated vigor, and our sales are far ahead of the corresponding period of last year. The reason is plain: Our inducements are so tempting that prospective purchasers are induced to make their selections right now. It certainly pays to buy at present prices. Just look at our grand assortment of Body and Tapestry Brussels, Moquettes, Velvets, etc., and then, if you inquire for the prices, your astonishment will know no bounds. We repeat, now's the time

How about Kitchen Utensils in general? Do you require something? Remember, we carry a complete stock and our prices are in keeping with those prevailing in every other branch of our business. For the approaching Christmas we offer

FOR THE BODY,

The striking attractions presented by us in Furniture and Carpets are only equaled by the wonderful inducements we offer in Clothing, Cloaks and Dry Goods: MEN'S CLOTHING.

A simple glance at our stock of Men's Suits and Overcoats will convince you of the various benefits you derive from patronizing us. We keep only such qualities as we can honestly recommend to our customers, and our assortment embraces all new and popular styles. Scores of beautiful Sack and Frock Suits; scores of heavy and medium weight Overcoats; scores of long and short cut Overcoats. And the price of every garment will please and delight the most persistent bargain seeker.

CLOAKS.

It makes no difference whether you wish to buy a Newmarket, a Wrap or Jacket, in cloth or in plush, we feel confident of our ability to serve you best. Plush garments are our great specialty, and our $20 Plush Coat has many rivals but no equals.

We also show an elegant assortment of Misses' Newmarkets and invite every mother to call and see them. You'll look in vain for old styles or shoddy qualities here. We have

DRY GOODS,

All the popular staples are here, and the prices will leave nothing to be desired. And, don't forget, that we show a complete line of Blankets (and this is an article needed in many a home, now that "winter's icy blasts" have put in an appearance) at prices that will please you. Why not come this week and make your purchases? 'Tis useless to wait for a better opportunity.
